SOME QUEER CUSTOMS.

Mining Camp Dishwashing and Tidy Island Tenmiking.

An old camper-out once related to a horrified housekeeper his experience of dishwashing in a miners' camp. It did not take much time, though the company was numerous, and the utensils of the kitchen were in constant use. The reason why it took but little time he sufficiently indicated by the statement that the cook pot was not cleaned till it became too small to hold a pudding of reasonable size. Then somebody got a hammer and knocked off the hardened accretions from its interior till it was restored nearly enough to its original capacity to render further service.

On Tidy island, an out of the way bit of an Irish islet, the natives are not much more dainty in their living, and their habit of letting the grounds remain indefinitely in their teapots has disastrous consequences.

"Every day and all day long," says a recent writer, "the teapot sits steaming in the embers of the hearth and at each successive brew fresh tea is thrown in, but the old is never thrown out until the pot is choked." The result is an unusual and excessive rate of insanity. Little wonder, when a Tidy island boy who was questioned as to his usual meals could reply:

"Strabout for breakfast and tay for dinner, tay, of course, at tay time and strabout for supper, whiles we have tay for breakfast instead, and strabout for our dinner, and then another sup of tay before bedtime."

However, this diet, injurious as it is to the nerves, does not seem to affect the muscles. The Tidy islanders are a robust and vigorous race, the men averaging six feet in height and the women unusually tall and strong. The women, indeed, have used of all their physical strength, since it is they who do the bulk of the outdoor work, while the men stay at home and spin and weave.

"At Anagry strand on a Sunday morning," says the same observer, "one may witness a strange sight. At low tide more than a mile of roundabout is saved by wading across a narrow bay. The men include in their Sunday's wardrobe shoes and stockings. The women, by courtesy and custom, wear 'matteens'—footless stockings with a loop passing over the toe. Each good wife takes her good man upon her shoulders and the heroes are conveyed across dry shod."—Youth's Companion.

MARRYING FOR TITLES.

The Adaptability of American Women Aids Them Vastly.

It is well understood in Europe that if a man marries into an untitled family it is better for him to marry an American than a woman of any other nationality, for the same reason that Napoleon gave for making choice of a Spaniard—she had no family in France to be enriched and ennobled. Europeans don't trouble themselves much about American social distinctions and can't understand the difference between a fortune made in 1796 and one made in the same way in 1897. Many of the diplomatic couples have married Americans, there have been several marriages of Washington girls to secretaries of legations and attaches within the last year, and a large proportion of them have turned out well. American women are natural diplomats. A European woman is born and bred in a certain rank of life, and although she may be transported to another rank she takes with her the stamp of the grade to which she belongs. Not so with an American woman. As the wife of the premier of Great Britain she would put Lady Clare Vere de Vere to shame by her quick adoption of most of the characteristics of the daughters of a hundred girls. There is less risk in an American girl marrying a diplomat than any other sort of a foreigner, for a diplomat is under bonds to have himself. But if she is ambitious and desires to make a really brilliant match she ought to marry a citizen of the United States.—Illustrated American.

How a Caterpillar Defends Itself.

The caterpillar of the puss moth, quite a common insect in this country, has a most effective way of defending itself, and in my prove, as we shall presently see, dangerous even to human beings. This well-protected caterpillar is provided between its head and forelegs with a cleft, from which it can protrude an organ capable of squirting out a quantity of very acid fluid to a considerable distance, and when alarmed it habitually makes use of this formidable weapon. In one of the entomological magazines a correspondent states that he was observing some of these caterpillars in captivity when he happened to disturb one, and it suddenly squirted out a quantity of fluid in a jet which struck one of his eyeballs, though his head at the time was quite two feet away from the insect. He rushed off in great agony to a doctor, who told him that the eyeball was in a very dangerous condition. His eye was totally blind for hours after the occurrence, and it was some days before he finally recovered. What the effect of this fluid must be upon smaller creatures we leave our readers to imagine. Hans Delbrück, editor of the Preussische Jahrbuecher, has been appointed to the chair of history in Berlin university, held by the late Heinrich von Treitschke.

THE TRIUMPH OF LOVE?

Happy and Fruitful Marriage.

Every MAN who would know the GRAND SECRET of the Plain Facts, the Old Secrets and the New Discoveries of Medical Science applied to Married Life, who would alone for past times and avoid future pitfalls, should write for our wonderful little book, called "Complete Manhood and How to Attain It." To any earnest man we will mail one copy Entirely Free, in plain sealed cover.

ERIE MEDICAL CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

Cupid, the Beggar.

How Love goes a begging for a little kindly treatment! How many women turn their backs on the little fellow! They give freely of their time and attention to fashion or social pleasures, but seem to regard happy wifehood and motherhood as a mere second consideration. They take no end of trouble over them, but think they have no time to bestow upon the health and physical soundness which are absolutely necessary to happy wifehood and motherhood.

Any weakness or disease of the delicate special organs of her sex totally unfit a woman to be a wife or mother. It is a woman's primary duty to be strong and healthy in a womanly way. Careful living and judicious treatment will certainly and completely eradicate these delicate complaints. A complete and practical treatise on this subject with careful professional advice and suggestions for self treatment are contained in "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," by R. V. Pierce, M. D., chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y. This 1000-page illustrated book will be sent paper-bound absolutely free for cost of mailing only 21 one-cent stamps, or cloth bound for 31 stamps. Address Dr. Pierce, as above. Dr. Pierce has given a life time to the study of women's diseases, and has had as wide a practical experience in this particular field as any living physician. His "Favorite Prescription" is a perfect and scientific remedy for diseases of the feminine organs. It is the only medicine devised for this particular purpose by an educated and skilled physician. It is a positive and permanent cure as attested by more than ninety thousand grateful women.

ONE WAVE OF PROSPERITY.

There has been one wave of prosperity since the tariff schedules were changed at the special session of Congress. This wave carried the sugar trust on its crest, but there is no evidence that it benefitted the public to the slightest extent. It increased the market value of sugar stock to the extent of $90,000,000, but as the increase must be paid with interest out of the pockets of sugar consumers it is not easy to see or understand how they are benefitted by the wave. Perhaps our contemporaries, which are defending every move that is made at their command and under the direction of Mr. Hanna, can explain. If they are able to do so the explanation, no doubt, would be instructive if not edifying. We suggest that instead of rejoicing over the decline in silver, as they have been doing, that by way of variation, if nothing more, they tell us how and in what respect the legislation that has advanced the price of sugar stock $90,000,000 and increased the price of sugar proportionately to the consumer, has benefitted the latter or the country.

It is true that the sugar kings contributed liberally to the success of the party in power. It was, therefore, the duty of the party in power, according to its custom and usage, to give the trust opportunity to plunder the people by enacting laws for that purpose, but in what way have those laws benefitted the public? Surely they do not increase the prosperity of the farmer or the laborer. They do not add to the revenue of the Government, as the trust took the precaution, having been advised of what was coming, to fill its warehouses in New York, Philadelphia and wherever it has a refinery, with raw sugar before the law went into effect.

As this is the only wave of prosperity that has swept over the country so far those who are subsidized by the trusts should explain, if they can, how it benefits the people.

ALF ELLINGHOUSE, Brady's agent, visited Carson yesterday and, very much like Reno, Carson knew just about as much after he had finished looking over the town as she did before he came. It is quite probable that if these promoters of fistic carnivals wish to come to Nevada to hold a fistic fight they will take advantage of the situation offered, and if the prospects of a financial success are even fair they will not delay over the matter of location.

They are in that line of business and like a circus or other attraction, they are looking after their own interests, not the convenience or welfare of the people of any particular locality or community.

The mines at Cook's Inlet, Alaska, may not be as rich as those on the Klondyke, but they pay for working, nevertheless. The schooner Norman Lund, now returning from the Inlet, has several miners aboard who have $125,000 in gold dust. Cook's Inlet is accessible at all seasons of the year and has the advantage of being in Uncle Sam's dominions, where miners do not have to pay a royalty and where the mercury seldom goes below zero. No doubt as rich diggings will be found in Alaska as in the British possessions.

An examination under the rules of the United States Civil Service, will be held at Carson City August 19th to establish a register for the position of fireman, from which a selection will be made to fill a vacancy in the position of fireman in the Federal building at Carson.

The salary for the position is $720 per annum and the examination will consist of a light educational test and practical questions in the work. Books will be furnished on application to S. H. Day, Postmaster.

The Spanish Premier, Canovas del Castillo, who was assassinated by a Neapolitan anarchist, was one of the most uncompromising opponents of Cuban independence. He was the chief exponent of those who were determined to maintain Spanish supremacy in the island. It is thought that his death will result in a complete change of sentiment, the freedom of Cuba and the end of monarchy in Spain.

The Supreme Court of California has decided to take no action in the Durrant appeal case until the Supreme Court of the United States disposes of the matter. Durrant, doubtless, is surprised that it should take the courts years to determine whether he murdered Blanche Lamont when the evidence proved to the jury and the public that there was no doubt whatever of his guilt.

There is much suffering among the families of the striking miners in the vicinity of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. When at work the miners received but a mere pittance for their labor and now, that they are idle, their families are entirely destitute and depending upon charity for the common necessities of life.

At Clayton, N. M., notices have been conspicuously posted warning all negroes to leave the town before August 16th. They are preparing to leave.

TELEGRAPHIC NOTES.

Paul Erdman, a Sacramento teamster who was injured Monday by being thrown to the ground and the wagon passing over him, died yesterday from his injuries.

Warren King, a well-known gambler, made an attempt at suicide by shooting himself at Los Angeles. He succeeded in making a big hole in his head, but will recover.

Congressman Osborne has been invited to accompany Wm. J. Bryan on a trip through Mexico to study the industrial conditions of that country and to look into the silver question as related to the monetary affairs of the United States.

The Populist State Convention will meet at Columbus, Ohio, to-day. The preliminary contest between the two wings will be fought. One wing favors fusion or endorsement of the Democratic State ticket. The other wing is opposed to it. The State Central Committee, with a fusion majority, is selecting the temporary officers of the convention.

Herbert Willis, the young Taunton desperado, while trying to escape from the State Prison at Charleston yesterday was fatally injured and his brother Edward, who was assisting him to escape was seriously wounded by the guards. Edward Willis had called to see his brother and had passed him a revolver and carried one himself. With these the two brothers tried to overpower the guards.

A long standing feud between the members of the Sailors' Union and Boarding House Master John Cane broke out yesterday morning in San Francisco. Cane was attacked by Frank Johnson, a seaman. While the fight was in progress Captain Masters of the barkentine Gardiner City went to Cane's assistance. At this moment Cane drew a pistol and fired at Johnson and missed him, the bullet striking Captain Masters in the leg inflicting a painful wound.

A train was derailed on the Central Railroad, New Jersey, on Monday night. The train was on its way to New York, running fifty miles an hour, and struck a pile of ties that had been placed on the track totally wrecking the engine and piling up fourteen cars in confusion. Before a flagman could be sent out to signal an approaching freight train, it ran into the wreck demolishing the engine and two cars. It is believed that train wreckers were at work to wreck the regular passenger.

The strike situation is much the same as it has been for several days past. Ohio miners invaded West Virginia yesterday morning peacefully. They were there for the purpose of closing down the Boggs Run mine, the only railroad mine in the Wheeling district now being operated. They announced that they would remain until the Boggs Run men joined the strike.

The miners along the Wheeling and Lake Erie have announced their willingness to participate in this demonstration, which may last several days. The men are being provisioned from the Wheeling miners' stores.

The miners camped at Plum Creek claim that a large desertion has occurred at the De Armit mines and that the working force is too small to dig enough coal to supply the water works at Pittsburg.

The officials of the New York and Cleveland Gas Coal Company claim they are working 200 men.

Payday passed off quietly, although the strikers and deputies expected trouble. Striking miners are expected to reach Irwin from Turtle Creek some time to-day and the operators are ready for them.

The Viavi Work.

In no way can we do more good than in restoring the sick to health. This Viavi will do, if intelligently used.

Have you stomach trouble? Use our Tablets.

Have you piles? Use our Sano.

Have you catarrh? Use our Catarrh Remedy.

Are you weak and all run down? Use Viavi.

Come and see me and I will fully explain the use of all of our remedies.

Mrs. B. E. HUNTER,

Fourth Street.

For Over Fifty Years.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used by millions of mothers for their children when teething. If disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures Diarrhea, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, cures Wind Colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation and gives Tone and Energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething is pleasant to the taste and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Price 25 cents a bottle. Sold by all druggists throughout the world. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup."

Beats the Klondyke.

Great excitement prevails at Trinity Center, Cal., over a rich strike made by the Graves brothers and Henry Carter in a drift claim on Coffee creek. In four days they took out three water bucketful of gold the value of $68,000. The largest piece weighed $12,000. They expect to take between $150,000 and $200,000 from the pocket.

Mining Changes.

There has been a big shaking up in the officers of the Gold Creek Mining Company. Walter Stoffel succeeds Captain Pinder, Surveyor Cook's services have been dispensed with, Schuyler Duryee becomes general manager, and Col. Church is no longer the chief engineer.—Independent.

The visiting Christian Endeavorers are all hurrying to their eastern homes now, loaded down with souvenirs of California and the West. They all have great tales to tell of their experience.

Jasper N. Killip, the well known horseman and pool seller in the California and Nevada racing circuit died at San Francisco on Saturday night. Death resulted from an operation for kidney trouble. He was quite well known in Reno.

McGurn's stage had another accident on the grade while on the way to Reno Monday. A single tree of the leaders broke and they got away from the driver. Cox the driver unhooked the swing span and mounted a couple of boys on them to give chase to the runaway horses and he came on to Reno with the two wheelers and wagon.

G. H. Giffen has quite a curiosity in the way of a receipt for money paid for a license to mine in British Columbia nearly thirty years ago. It is dated July 2, 1855. The miners who went into that country at the time were obliged to pay $5 a month for a license, so the tax on the miners is not a new departure for that government.—Tulsee Republican.

EDITOR NEVADA STATE JOURNAL—Sir: In compliance with a promise made in a former communication I shall report to you the results of a recent trip to the resources of Alaska.

Perhaps there can be no more beautiful trip more beautifully picturesque than a cruise along the western coast of Alaska, winding in and out among the many islands and rocky points, twisting and turning continually.

It requires the constant attention of the captain and three men to run the ship safely through the maze of rocks, shoals and sand banks which almost fill the narrow and nearly un navigable channels.

First it is "hard a port," then "steady," then "hard a starboard," and so continually day and night. It is an exciting and dangerous trip, for when the tide ebbs the water in these inland channels rushes along with the force and velocity of a mill-race and boils and bubbles around the rocks till its surface is churned into masses of foam.

And the scenery, it is really majestic. The islands are studded with rocks and boulders and covered completely with virgin forest. The timber extends to the water's edge and in many cases at high tide the sea water washes the trunks of the trees. And such a profusion of trees—all varieties of cedar, spruce, larch, hemlock and cypress.

The mountains to a height of 2,000 feet are completely covered with forests. The timber of Alaska alone would more than compensate the United States for the $7,000,000 expended in its purchase.

Speaking of timber naturally leads one to consider the game which inhabits these extensively wooded districts. Among the wild animals are the deer, elk, moose, various species of bear, the caribou, wolf, wolverine, fox, beaver, ermine, otter, martin, squirrel and a host of other fur-bearing animals.

It is indeed a veritable hunters' paradise. The Indians live entirely upon the game they kill and the fish they catch and always seem to have a plentiful stock of fresh meat on hand.

The rivers and streams abound in fish. Salmon is so common and plentiful that the Indians will not touch it unless they can get nothing better. Along the coast and in the tide-water inlets are extensive banks and here are found enormous schools of cod and herring.

Indeed they exist in such numbers that I have seen the Indians, on running into a school, in fifteen or twenty minutes, fill a good sized canoe, scooping them out with pitch-forks and shovels. Of late years extensive canneries have been erected and the fishing industry has been operated on a large scale, so much so, that Alaska salmon has become a staple in the commercial world.

The fish, however, that most appeals to the Indian palate is the halibut and really when served in proper style there is hardly a fish to equal it. It has a meat of a hard, white character which when dried and cut in strips, or rather jerked, keeps excellently for months. It is no unusual sight to see numberless strips of this fish hanging from the ridge poles of the Indian huts.

Besides the smaller fish there are, of course, the different species of whales which frequent the coast and other Alaskan waters. It is no uncommon sight to see them sporting and spouting in bands of eight or nine. I remember when we were entering Alaskan waters what a commotion was excited by the discovery of the first whale. Some one shouted, "Look, look, a whale," and the whole company flocked to the steamer's side and watched till the animal was out of sight, but, by the time we had reached Opalaska, so common an occurrence would not even arouse passing comment.

Yours truly,
E. L. S.

In the Cause of Humanity.

Some Reno ladies visited the Indian camps, just northeast of town last evening, having been told that two mahalas who were injured in the late wreck were lying there comparatively helpless and one in the most intense agony.

The ladies found that the report was only too true and that the condition of the two Indian women was pitiable indeed and is almost a disgrace to a civilized community. One of the mahalas will probably die, but something should be done towards relieving her terrible sufferings while she yet lives.

A dog could not be treated much worse. What's the matter with the authorities who are supposed, by virtue of their positions, to look after such cases. The county physician might also render some aid in a case of this kind. It was thought that Livingstone of San Jose, who gave such a wild story to the Examiner about the inhumanity shown the Indians at the wreck, was talking through his hat, but by the condition of these poor Indians below town it would appear that he was not entirely wrong.

Westerfield's Benches.

State Treasurer Westerfield placed the benches in the Capitol square yesterday. He has always held that the Capitol square belongs to the people and he proposes to fix it so the people can enjoy the shade, the cool breeze and the effulgent moonlight. The young folks can occupy the benches and spoon to their hearts content. The State Treasurer was a young man himself once and knows the public needs.

He only asks that people who occupy the benches will not cut or mutilate them.—Appeal.

THE FARMERS' CONGRESS.

The Railroads Give Reduced Rates to St. Paul.

All the railway passenger associations in the country have granted a rate of one and one-third fare for the round trip, good for all delegates, regular or associate, and their traveling companions, and also for all who attend the Farmers' National Congress at St. Paul, Minnesota, whether regular delegates or not.

The Congress will be in session from August 31st to September 7th inclusive.

Several noted personages have signified their intention to attend the Congress. The Mexican government contemplates sending delegates there and it is probable that there will be delegates in attendance from several South American countries. All the States and territories of the Union are expected to have delegates at the meeting.

On account of the number of prominent speakers who will be present, addresses and papers will be limited strictly to twenty minutes each so that all will have an opportunity to be heard in the limited time at the disposal of the meeting. The regular delegates from this State are Hon. Ross Lewers of Franktown, Hon. Samuel P. Davis of the Holstein Ranch, and Hon. Robert Bailey of White, Eureka county, all prominent agriculturists.

A Floating Island.

Henry Lake, Idaho, has a floating island about 300 feet in diameter. It is formed of a mass of roots and decayed vegetation, sufficient to support large trees and a dense growth of underbrush. The edges of the island are thin, but near the center it is several feet thick. The willow thickets on it and several good sized trees of the pine and aspen species serve as sails and as the breeze changes into various quarters, the island moves hither and thither over the forty square miles of water. It is claimed to be one of the greatest curiosities in the United States.

A Woman's Rose Company.

A number of ladies have organized a hose company at Nevada City, California, and propose running "wid der masheen."

At a fire the other day in that town they took their first run and dragged the heavy hose cart through the dusty streets, unreeled the hose and connected it to a hydrant, but were disappointed, as there was no water. They accomplished the whole work without the aid of a man. They have made application to the Board of Fire Trustees to be recognized as a part of the city department.

Death of an Old Renolite.

Word has been received of the death of Mrs. Charlotte Jaques formerly of Reno. She died at Pasadena, Cal., on the 15th of July. Mr. Jaques and the mother of the deceased were with her at the last, but Cloyd, her son was in Mexico, where he now resides and holds a lucrative position in a large mercantile firm. Mrs. Jaques will be remembered by many here, she always having taken an active part in the Woman's Relief Corps and the W. C. T. U.

A Concert.

Miss Mable Stanaway assisted by local talent will give a concert on Friday August 27, at the University Gymnasium. Miss Stanaway expects to return to Boston about the 1st of September to resume her musical studies, which she hopes to complete by next June. The program of the coming concert will be choice and all who attend will be assured of a pleasant evening's entertainment, besides assisting the young lady in a laudable ambition.

Common Sense Self Tilting Kettle.

No more burning hands, spilling, or the cover falling off. James Griffiths has the common sense kettle that he is selling to the ladies of Reno. California has endorsed it as being the best cooking utensil ever used in a kitchen. Seven different sizes that sell from 90 cents to $1.75. Agents wanted. A fine opportunity for a lady. All-St.

Went Insane on the Train.

Miss Mary Huger, a passenger on the overland train for San Francisco, became suddenly insane Monday and tried to jump from the train between Sacramento and San Francisco, three different times. While crossing the bay in the custody of a railroad officer she made two attempts to jump overboard.

Muller & Stump will receive a carload of the celebrated Pabst beer and malt extract this week.

Sheriff McInnis left for Wadsworth last evening on a day or two's trip.

But a Man in the Same Condition was seen about the same time. The wagon house was very late a few nights ago, he says, when he met a young man whom he knows. The young man was hopelessly drunk. The congressman happened to know where he lived, and kindly guided him home. A fight was burning in an upper window of the house, and the congressman had no sooner pulled the bell than the door was flung open and a tall and vigorous woman appeared. She said not a word, but she grabbed the intoxicated young man by the collar and gave him a shaking that fairly loosened his teeth in their sockets. Into the hall she shook him and slammed the door. The congressman was descending the steps when the door opened again and his friend flew out as if flung from a catapult. He landed at the foot of the stairs and the congressman picked him up. He was very much frightened and he was almost sober. He managed to gasp out:

"We don't live here. We—we moved last week."

That's all the congressman's story, but I think the really interesting thing would be to know what happened to the man who does live there.

TO A GOOD OLD AGE.

Many of the Dwellers in the Caucasus Live to Be Centenarians.

Last year an old peasant named Ivan Kouzmin was reported to have traveled from Moscow to Kief at the age of 140. He was said to be in good health, says London Lancet. He had formerly been coachman to Count Sheremetief, but in 1810 was sent to Siberia, where he spent 54 years, returning in 1864. This is not the only instance in which a Siberian exile has survived to extreme old age.

Two years ago there was said to have died in Samara one Lavrentii Efimoff, who had attained the age of 150. According to the newspaper reports of him he took part as a boy in the famous Pugatchef rebellion in the reign of Catherine the Great, and for his share in that brief but sanguinary outbreak spent 30 years of his life in Siberia. Recently there was said to be living in the village of Vank (Saratof government) an Armenian aged 110, the proud ancestor of 91 descendants, of whom 71 were still living. His name was David Kazarian. Another Armenian, a priest named Ter-Mikaeliantz, was reported not long ago to be living at Gori, in the Caucasus, at the age of 108. He was still able to walk to church and once a year performed the liturgy. If recent history in the Turkish empire continues to repeat itself such instances of longevity among Armenians seem likely to become rare.

SCOTCH SINECURE.

That Mr. He Obliviated After Running Six Hundred Years.

It is proposed by the lord of the treasury to commute the payment of £242 15s, which is annually paid to the holder of the ancient office of heritable usher of Scotland.

The office, says the London Mail, was originally conferred on Alexander Cockburn, of London, and his heirs, by an act of parliament in Scotland in 1393, and the original grant was confirmed by subsequent acts of the Scottish parliament in 1681 and 1686, the latter act attaching a salary of £250 a year to the office, but certain statutory deductions have reduced the amount now payable to £242 15s.

In 1805 the office, with the salary, being a heritable subject capable of being assigned away, was acquired by Sir Patrick Walker for £7,600, a sum equivalent to 3 1/4 years' purchase of the salary. In 1890, the question whether the grant was permanently binding was submitted to the law officers of the crown in Scotland, who stated that in their opinion it was legally binding, as resting on a series of acts of the Scots parliament.

No duties of an onerous kind are or have been required for a long time from the holder of the office, and it is now proposed to commute the payment at 27 years' purchase.

Get Trained for Their Fare.

It is perhaps not generally known, says the New York Sun, even in Brooklyn, that persons of respectable appearance may travel on the street cars of that city when they have no money. A woman who has left her purse at home, or a man who has spent all his change speculating in stocks, if ordinarily well dressed, has only to tell the conductor the condition of affairs, on boarding a car, to get carried to any desired point. The conductor gives the penniless passenger an envelope addressed to the office of the company in which to forward later the lacking nickel. This is done as a matter of course, and only a passenger who looks disreputable meets with refusal. This system has been in operation some time, which is apparent proof that the passengers who thus get trained for their fares use the envelopes given them for the purpose for which they are intended.

The Door Bell in Massachusetts.

The story is going the rounds now of a young man who visited the Tapley school one day to see a teacher. He got hold of the fire alarm, thinking it to be a door bell, and gave it a good ring. In a few seconds the school children came rushing by him, and it was not many seconds before the building was being rapidly emptied. The man stood by in a dazed sort of way and watched them go by and could not imagine what all the fuss was about.

William Goes Armed.

The German emperor invariably carries with him wherever he goes a small revolver. His majesty is a skillful shot, and the chasseur who accompanies him everywhere has received orders to inspect this weapon every morning to assure the fact of its being in working order.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Curious Fact About the "Murray Cod" of Australia.
There is a large fish found in the rivers of western Australia known as the "Murray Cod." This fish—which is delicious for the table—is remarkable for its size, sometimes weighing as much as 150 pounds; but the strangest thing about it is the fact that it carries around a photograph inside its body. At least the natives say that it is a photograph, and certainly it looks like one.
When the Murray cod is cut open a bladder is seen, extending along the backbone from just behind the gills to the fatty part of the tail. In a 30-pound fish the bladder is about 12 inches long and an inch or more in width. Within this is a film, or thin membrane, through which runs a delicate tracery composed of a multitude of little red lines, interlacing like the frost work on a window pane in winter. This film can be peeled off and spread upon a sheet of paper or a piece of cloth, to which it readily adheres. It then forms a very pretty picture. Sometimes it looks like a bit of pressed seaweed; sometimes it seems to portray a miniature landscape with a dark forest background; but in most cases it presents a surprisingly distinct outline of a single tree, the Australian gum tree, a species of eucalyptus.
To explain this singular fact the aborigines have an ingenious theory. They say that the picture thus imprinted on the membrane represents the tree which overshadows the pool where the big fish made its haunt—in short, that it is a real photograph.
Fanciful as the notion seems, it gains a certain plausibility from the known habits of the fish, which is extremely solitary and exclusive in its ways. The Murray cod really does make its home in some forest-shadowed pool, to which it always returns after its excursions abroad for food or exercise, leading a curiously hermit-like existence; it will allow no other member of its species to intrude upon its domain. Here the sullen creature spends its life, year in and year out; it never changes its residence. Here it grows from insignificant minnowhood until it becomes a king among fishes, as big and heavy as a well-developed man, and for the greater part of each day the shadow of its favorite tree falls upon its slimy back. It is little wonder, therefore, that the untutored but imaginative savages, puzzled by the lifelike picture which they find in the bladder, conclude that the familiar scene has become photographed in the creature's very substance.—N. Y. Journal.

A NICARAGUAN HEROINE.
How a Soldier's Daughter Defeated Capt. Nelson's Forces.
It is well known that Lord Nelson, the hero of Trafalgar, had but one eye, and it is commonly supposed that he lost it in the ordinary fortunes of war. Such, however, is not the truth, if the story current in Nicaragua may be believed. In 1780 England sent out an expedition to enforce her claims to certain lands adjoining the isthmus. The point of attack was Fort San Carlos at San Juan del Norte. Two hundred sailors and marines under the leadership of Capt. Nelson were landed. The cowardly garrison of Spanish soldiers deserted the commandant, but he refused to leave. His daughter, Donna Rafaela Mora, a girl of 15, remained by his side and determined to do all she could for her father and for her country. She took up her position behind an embrasure, seized a gun and when the party advanced fired directly at their leader. He fell, his eye pierced by a bullet. His followers were so thrown into confusion and terror that they came to their senses and fled. Donna Rafaela Mora was decorated by the king of Spain, commissioned a colonel in the royal service and pensioned for life.
Nelson's biographers merely state that he was repulsed at Fort San Carlos, and claim that he lost his eye in Corsica. The foregoing story has, however, been considered authentic, and by reason of it Gen. Martinez, the grandson of Donna Rafaela, was sufficiently popular to be elected president of the republic in 1857 by a grateful people.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Lamartine's manuscripts of his poems have been handed over to the Paris National Library by M. Emile Olivier, as the literary executor of Mlle. Valentine de Lamartine.
Italy has a music trust, a well-known firm of music publishers controlling copyrights and theaters so that no opera can be given without its consent and no singer engaged save at its dictation.
